10 YEARS ANNIVERSARY

2018

NORTH AMERICA PERFORATING SYMPOSIUM

JULY 31-

AUG 1

MOODY GARDENS,
GALVESTON, USA

“Perforating [is] no longer about punching a few holes and waiting for the black stuff to gush. It was becoming complex and varied, requiring a more in depth understanding of the performance of gun systems and we needed new technologies to deliver in our ever more challenging operating environments.” Mark Brinsden, President IPFC

The first fully sponsored International Perforating Symposium (IPS) was held in the Woodlands, USA, at the end of September, 2008. Since then, there has been global interest and cooperation, with IPS Committees set up in Europe, the Far East, South America, the Middle East, China and now in Russia. With the incorporation of the IPFC as a formal organization in 2015, the inauguration of the Journal of the International Perforating Forum (JIPF), the launch of the new website, and the Young Professionals (YP) group formation, the Perforating Forum has been taken to the next level. This industry clearly needed to have its own focal point and the IPF and all the committee members, sponsors, speakers and delegates at the many symposiums held over the last 10 years have made it possible.

We are cordially inviting you to join us for our 10TH ANNIVERSARY PERFORATING SYMPOSIUM, which will be held in North America, Galveston, USA on JULY 31-THRU AUGUST 1ST. The event is once again fully sponsored and will be hosted at the amazing Moody Gardens Hotel in Galveston. More details will be posted on the website.
